ABSTRACT

Designed to correlate the subject matter of English with that of power mechanics, this course guide (1) provides the student with the opportunities for utilizing the skills gained in power mechanics to enter into a vocation and (2) provides the student with enough knowledge to consider post-secondary study. Objectives are divided into four categories--program, performance, process, and activities. Included are all activities with which a student will be involved in a teaching situation, evaluation materials, worksheets, guides, and other materials that can be used. Each unit concludes with a bibliography which is preceded by a list of equipment, films, and other supplies. The guide is divided into two volumes--this first volume covers attitudes, speaking, listening, and paragraphing.

Introduction

The materials you are about to use were developed in the summer of 1973 by teachers experienced in teaching the subject areas involved. These materials were developed with respect to the concept of performance objectives as organized by EPIC Diversified Systems Corporation of Tuscon, Arizona. EPIC was retained by the Natchitoches Parish School Board to serve as monitor and evaluator of this Interest-Based Curriculum.

The instructional materials developed in English, mathematics and science correlate the vocabulary, terminology, concepts and skills of construction trades to each academic area involved. For the sake of consistency, the format utilized herein contains certain symbols and abbreviations as instructional guides.

Objectives within the documents were divided into four categories; 1) program Objectives; 2) Performance Objectives; 3) Process Objectives; 4) Activities. These are categorized by the numbering system preceding each objective or activity. For example, the number sequence 8-1-3 refers to: Performance Objective number eight, signified by the first numeral; process objective number one, represented by the second numeral; and activity number three, as indicated by the third numeral. The numbers in parenthesis beneath each sequence (2,1,3,4) indicate that the Program Objectives, to which each process objective relates. This identification system allows immediate identification of the objective(s) covered and assists in establishing a Project Monitorial System, referred to by the abbreviation PMS.

These courses of study are designed to be as inclusive as possible. Included are all activities with which a student will be involved in a teaching situation, along with many of the evaluation materials. Work-sheets, guides, and other materials will be used. Also, each unit or topic is terminated by a bibliography preceded by a list of equipment, films and other supplies.

Copies of these materials may be obtained from the Louisiana State Department of Education. If not available there, they may be secured by writing to:

Mr. Trent O. Melder, Coordinator

Cost is $3.75 per booklet to cover expenses involved in preparation, handling and shipping.

Foreword

Within the pages of this document are contained the efforts by a group of teachers to develop curricular materials designed to correlate the subject matter of English with that of power mechanics. The purpose of these efforts is twofold. First, it is the opinion of those involved that the subject matter of academic areas should be taught to students in a way that is both useful for their future aspirations and meaningful to them as citizens of our community, state, and nation. Second, by utilizing an interest-based curriculum, it is felt that the interests of students in their academic areas will be heightened, thereby improving their achievement in those subjects involved.

This course of study is not an adaptation of the traditional course or courses in English to a level compatible with the achievement of students involved. Quite the contrary is true. Every effort has been expended to assure that basic concepts and ideas in grammar, literature, communication, and other topics involved, have been included. The foremost change has been to adapt the vocabulary of power mechanics to the English course of study. Utilizing this approach to the teaching of English opens to students two possibilities upon graduation. First, they will be able to utilize the skills gained in power mechanics to enter actively into a vocation. Second, should their aspirations include post-secondary study, the knowledge gained through the correlated English classes opens this door to them also.

Development of the materials contained herein was most difficult and time consuming; however, the results are immeasurably rewarding. The opportunity to develop these and other materials was made possible by an ESEA Title III Grant. Our thanks are extended to the Louisiana State Department of Education for its assistance and encouragement.

Teachers involved in the development of these materials include the following:

Mrs. Sylvia Brown	Natchitoches Central High School
Mr. Andrew Marusak	Natchitoches Central High School
Mrs. Vickie Warner	Gorum High School
Mrs. Bettye Bruning	Librarian, Natchitoches Central High School

UNIT I
ATTITUDES

OVERVIEW: ATTITUDES

"Use what language you will, you can never say anything but what you are."

-Ralph Waldo Emerson

Attitudes cannot be developed in a sixteen or seventeen year-old young man. At this age such a young man has already formed a mental outlook on life which has been impaled in his mind by his peers, family, and our schools and communities.

One cannot change these self-made attitudes, but one can attempt to guide these mental concepts toward the right direction, which is self-expression through good oral communication.

This unit is divided into four related subject areas: self, school, peer, and community attitudes. The purpose of these related subject areas is to reveal to the students that previously gained attitudes, if expressed soundly and sincerely with good intent, may lead to the betterment of each as an individual in our society.

Improvement is the main objective throughout this unit. If the students can communicate with one another and their teacher within the classroom, then the goal of obtaining knowledge will be made easier.

UNIT: ATTITUDES

- 1-0-0 At the end of the unit on attitudes, the students will demonstrate
(6) their abilities to apply self-made attitudes using oral responses an increased accuracy of a teacher-made test.

2-1-1

SCHOOL CITIZENSHIP*

Citizenship means membership in a city or state with the right to enjoy its freedom and privileges and accept its responsibilities. As a help toward becoming and remaining good citizens of Byrd, the following suggestions are offered.

Citizenship*

Strive always to uphold the honored name of Byrd High School. Give respectful attention to your teachers and to your fellow students. Obey the rules of the school (see General Regulations). Protect your property.

The Classroom*

It should be the responsibility of members to cooperate with the one in charge, act courteously toward other members of the class as well as the teacher, have respect for all strangers, come to class prepared to work at all times and to take part in all class discussions.

The Study Room*

Study rooms have been provided as a help to the students and should be used conscientiously. If used correctly, the study room will provide an opportunity to improve grades and develop good study habits.

The Auditorium*

You are an auditor; give your undivided attention. You are a guest; appreciate what has been provided for your entertainment and enlightenment. You are a host or hostess; be gracious to all visitors. You are a member of the school; honor it by your worthy conduct.

2-1-1

CODE OF CONDUCT *

In any situation involving a number of people, the majority will gradually accept certain standards of behavior. These standards, or codes, are those principles which enable the group to exist and work together in harmony. In order to attain a higher level of student behavior, students of Fair Park High School should...REMEMBER...

HONESTY is that quality of good living that enables one to have a clear conscience.

COOPERATION is the working together as students and teachers to acquire a common goal--education.

COURTESY however trite it may seem to some is that quality that causes one to stand out as an individual in a numberless group in a manner that is pleasing as well as admirable to others.

RESPONSIBILITY is the acceptance of a duty without hesitation and carrying it out until students' and teachers' ability ends.

SCHOOL SPIRIT is the feeling of love and devotion that one has for his school. Also the striving as a group for the betterment of Fair Park.

SPORTSMANSHIP is the treating of our fellowman as we would like to be treated, also the accepting of victory and defeat in the proper Christian attitude. We should work to leave our school a better place because of our presence.

SCHOOL

You may find it difficult to believe, but the word school grew in a fairly direct way from the Greek word scole, and to the ancient Greeks that word meant "leisure."

Here's why the word for leisure is appropriate: Pupils in Athens, Sparta, and other centers of civilization in pre-Christian times were not blasted out of bed by a raucous alarm clock. They didn't have to rush through a bowl of cereal, hurrying to classes before the first bell rang. Things were quite different. Only the well-to-do families gave any attention to education. Girls received no formal instruction at all. Young boys had early training in athletics and music.

For boys in their teens, school meant walking on a warm, sun-washed day, enjoying a casual meal served by slaves, and then sauntering out to find one's teacher.

Most likely, he'd be strolling through one of the cool green groves of olive and eucalyptus trees that dotted the main areas of the city. With no roll call, no attendance sheets, a group would gather and go for a walk, frequently through the city and on to the countryside. There, they would sit and talk, listen, argue, ask questions, search out answers. That was a scole.

It was a proper designation because only those people with plenty of leisure time could acquire an education in this slow, pleasant way. The Greeks did put great emphasis on education even though it was available to only a small part of the population. To them, discussing ideas, exercising the mind, learning about music, art, philosophy, geography, natural history, even geometry, were natural and delightful uses of leisure time.

Nowadays, everyone has the opportunity to go to school. And with so many pupils, schedules and bells are necessary. But whether you're idling along a tree-bordered path or working hard at your desk in class, you can't escape the significance of words.

SELF-ESTEEM CHECKLIST

We are trying to learn more and more about young people and how they really feel about themselves. You can help us do this by answering the following questions. If the question describes how you usually feel, put a check (✓) in the YES column. If the question does not describe how you usually feel, put a check (✓) in the NO column.

The SOMETIMES column should be marked when you cannot say definitely YES or NO to the question. However try to use the SOMETIMES column as little as possible.

This is not a test. There are no right or wrong answers, so you won't be graded on it. Since your name is not required on this page please be as frank as possible.

DIRECTIONS FOR COMPLETING MONITORIAL SHEET

A. Heading Information:

1. Class: Enter the name of the Interest-Based Curriculum Area, eg. Math For Industry.
2. Teacher: Enter name of teacher. If more than one teacher is involved, give the name of the teacher managing the instructional activity.
3. Date: Enter the date of submission of the monitorial sheet.
4. Objectives (By Number): Enter the numbers of the interim-performance objectives covered by the monitorial sheet. Process and task level objectives should not be entered in this area of the form.
5. Time Interval: Specify the beginning and ending dates for the industrial activities covered on the particular monitorial sheet.

B. Line Item Information:

1. Objectives: Enter the number(s) of the process/task level objectives implemented to bring about the behaviors specified in the interim-performance objectives noted in A-4 above. Do not specify interim-performance objectives at the line item level.
2. Estimated Time: Enter the estimated time for completion of each process/task objective. This should be noted in terms of days to the nearest tenth. One day is equivalent to the instructional activity period for the given curriculum area for a single group of students.
3. Actual Time: Same as #2 above in terms of actual days and tenths of days utilized to carry out the line item objective.
4. Date Completed: Date of completion of the instructional activity.
5. Teacher's Initials: Initial each line item to signify completion of the instructional activity.

C. Additional Information:

1. Objectives Not Covered (List By Number): List those process/task objectives not implemented in the instructional activities for the given interim-performance objectives.
2. Objectives Altered or Added (List By Number; State Adjusted Objective on Back of Sheet): Complete as specified.

UNIT II

SPEAKING AND LISTENING

OVERVIEW: SPEAKING AND LISTENING

There are many avenues one may follow in a unit capitalizing on the skills of speaking and listening. Oral reports, informal discussions, debates, guest speakers, tests, and everyday life situations all may be explored from the viewpoint of the relative importance of speaking and listening. Since speaking and listening are the two primary tools of communication (reading and writing being secondary), these skills must be cultivated so that students will be able to handle social situations.

Students interested in power mechanics should be able to see the relevance of this unit to their world. Realizing that they now do most of their communicating through speaking and listening, the young people will understand the need for this unit.

The unit is divided into two sections, the first dealing with listening and the second, speaking. Students will be made aware that listening effectively is a skill that must be practiced. There are activities designed to stimulate listening, ranging from the solely aesthetic to the critical. Speaking activities are varied, including telephone courtesy and oral reporting. The students will evaluate themselves and one another, using the teacher as a resource person.

It is hoped that the young people will gain a measure of poise and maturity, or at least an awareness of their own needs in speaking and listening during this study.

UNIT: SPEAKING AND LISTENING

- 1-0-0 At the end of the speaking and listening unit, the students will (4,5, demonstrate the value of two-way communication by presenting a 10,11) short speech on an aspect of safety, with teacher and class approved proficiency in accordance with the speaker and listener profiles.
- 1-1-0 During the class periods, the teacher will provide monitored activities for improving listening and for creating an awareness of listening habits.
- 1-1-1 Introduce unit by discussing the poster "Safety Hazards in Industry."
- 1-1-2 Class discussion of the importance of listening, using handout
and transparency
- 1-1-3 To reinforce 1-1-2, the students will collect pictures of people in listening situations to make a bulletin board entitled "Everyday Listening Situations."
- 1-1-4 Class discussion contrasting good listening habits and poor listening habits, using transparencies
- 1-1-5 Class discussion of the kinds of listening, using handouts and transparencies
- 1-1-6 Practice in aesthetic listening. The class will hear a recording of a popular song that is familiar. Afterward, they will discuss the following questions:
1. How does the song make you feel?
 2. What story is possibly behind the words of the song?
 3. What is the significance of the actual words in the song?
 4. Why is listening to a song considered to be aesthetic listening?
- 1-1-7 Practice in recall listening. The teacher will read a passage from Crouse's Automotive Mechanics concerning shop safety.
Have a short oral quiz to test recall listening.
- 1-1-8 To reinforce listening skills, the class will view "How to Listen More Effectively," a set of filmstrips and record.
- 1-2-0 At the end of the listening skills lessons, the teacher will administer self-evaluation listener profiles to the students as evidenced by the program monitorial system.
- 1-2-1 Administer and discuss listener profiles.
- 1-3-0 During the class periods, the teacher will provide monitored activities for improving speaking and for creating an awareness of speaking habits.

- 1-3-1 Class discussion of the need for good speaking habits, using transparencies, handout, and filmstrip
- 1-3-2 Class discussion of the characteristics of good and bad speakers, using ideas contributed by class members
- 1-3-3 Tape short, extemporaneous talks on some phase of safety and play back the tapes to let the students hear how they sound and analyze their speaking habits. Students may use periodicals for safety information. Use transparencies as an aid to discussion.
- 1-3-4 Class discussion of telephone courtesy, using handout and transparency to "kick off" the discussion
- 1-3-5 Have a guest speaker from the telephone company to demonstrate telephone use, involving the students in practical discussion.
- 1-3-6 Practice telephone courtesy. Using hypothetical situations, students will practice telephone use. Students will orally evaluate each other.
- 1-3-7 Class discussion of the guidelines for giving directions, using transparencies and handout
- 1-3-8 Spend time in the library choosing and researching safety topics to present in the form of a short speech telling directions. Handout contains suggested topics. Use films as a review of library use.
- 1-3-9 Using transparencies, films, poster, and handout, discuss and practice outlining and presenting speeches.
- 1-3-10 Class members will present speeches giving directions in some phase of safety.
- 1-4-0 During the directions talks, the teacher will administer speaker profiles so that the students may evaluate each other, as evidenced by the project monitorial system.
- 1-4-1 Speaker profiles will be administered and discussed.
- 1-5-0 Throughout the speaking and listening unit, the teacher will motivate the students to find cartoons and articles about safety to display in the classroom and to be the basis for monitored discussions.

ACTIVITIES

1-1-2 Listening in business and industry

Habits of good listening contribute greatly to one's success in all areas of life, but particularly in business and industry. Some large corporations, such as American Telephone and Telegraph, General Electric, and General Motors, provide listening training for some of their personnel.

A supervisor must know how to listen. Large corporations know that management must know how to listen if it is to be effective. They know that the successful supervisor doesn't just give orders; he also does a lot of listening. He listens to his employees to find out what they think, so he can help to settle arguments or complaints and establish good employee relations, and because he knows that employees often contribute time and money-saving ideas when they have a supervisor who really listens to them.

Workers, too, must listen. Many workers in business and industry rely on listening skills in order to carry out their daily assignments. Telephone operators and salespeople must be skilled listeners. Another who must depend upon effective listening for success in his work is the automobile service repair manager. When a customer brings his car in for repair, the service manager must listen to and record what the customer thinks is wrong with the car. Sometimes he must even listen to the motor for clues to the difficulty. He must listen to find if, when, and where the repaired vehicle is to be delivered. After the work is completed, he must listen to the mechanics to find what repairs have been made and whether they have been made satisfactorily. The success of the service department-manager depends greatly upon how well he listens to his customers and his workers.

All employees who provide service of any kind--and that includes most--are partially, if not totally, dependent upon their listening ability to aid them in carrying out their duties. No one in business and industry is immune to the need for effective listening. Every worker--every secretary, accountant, shipping clerk, machine operator, mechanic--receives much information and many instructions orally from co-workers, from supervisors, and from customers. Failure to listen results in errors, accidents, and misunderstandings; and these are costly in terms of time, money and good will.

1-1-5 Kinds of listening

1. Listening for entertainment or appreciation - This is also called aesthetic listening. It involves enjoyment of music, television, movies, plays, conversation, humorous speeches, and other forms of entertainment.
2. Listening for information - This is also called recall listening. The listener hears and records information for later use. Skills involved are listening for key words and facts, and organizing them so they can be recalled. This type of listening is helpful in school.
3. Listening for evaluation - This is also called critical listening. The listener must make a judgment; he must decide about the probable truth or wisdom of what he hears. His own knowledge and ability to reason must have a bearing on what he hears. He needs to be able to recognize propaganda techniques. This type of listening is helpful in judging advertisements and in dealing with salesmen and politicians.

1-1-9 Passage from Automotive Mechanics

Safety in the Shop

"Work quietly, and give your work your undivided attention. You should never indulge in horseplay or create an unnecessary disturbance. Such actions might distract someone and cause him to get hurt. Keep your tools and equipment under control. Don't scatter them about or lay them on operating machinery or equipment. Keep them out of aisles and working spaces where someone could trip over them. Use special care to keep jack handles and creepers out of the way; tripping over these is one of the most common causes of accidents in the automobile shop. Don't put sharp objects or tools into your pockets. You might cut your hand or get stabbed. Make sure your clothing is suited to the job and that you do not have a dangling tie, loose sleeves, and so forth, that could get caught in moving machinery. Wipe excess oil or grease off your hands because oil or grease makes your hands slippery so that you cannot get a good grip on tools or parts. Do not use a compressed-air hose to blow dirt from your clothes. Never point the hose at another person. Particles of dirt may be blown at sufficient speed to penetrate the skin or the eyes. Goggles should be worn when the air hose is used, as well as during chipping, grinding, or any other job where there is danger to the eyes from flying particles. When using a car jack, make sure that it is centered, so that it will not slip and allow the car to drop. Never jack up a car when someone is working under it. Use car stands or supports, properly placed, before going under a car.

Tools should be clean and in good condition. Greasy or oily tools will be hard to hold and use; wipe them off before trying to use them. Always use the proper tool for the proper job; using the wrong tool may damage the tool or the part being worked on, or it might lead to personal injury."

Questions for recall:

1. What two pieces of equipment are the most common causes of accidents in the shop?
2. What is the major hazard in wearing a tie in the shop?
3. What piece of equipment must be used when one works with a compressed-air hose?
4. How can one avoid having a jack slip and the car drop?
5. Why should one keep tools clean?

1-3-1 The Need for Good Speaking Habits

Every day there are hundreds of opportunities to speak. We talk with our friends, make telephone calls, make reports in school, complain, and voice opinions. People in the world of work, too, find themselves in numerous speaking situations daily. A person in the automobile repair business must talk when he receives orders for services or repairs; when he receives complaints and makes adjustments; and when he talks to his fellow workers.

Speaking is one of the primary methods of communication. We speak for five basic reasons: To fulfill a need, to communicate our ideas, to control our environment, to get responses from others, and to achieve understanding. Language is a set of symbols used to communicate ideas. We need to practice good speaking habits so that we can communicate our ideas well. Communication requires a sender of messages and a receiver of messages. It would be difficult to be the receiver of a poorly-communicated message. For this reason, everyone needs to put his best attitude into speaking and listening.

1-3-4 Guides for using the telephone

- I. Identify yourself immediately, whether making the call or answering the call.
 - A. In answering an office or department telephone, identify both the office and yourself.
 - B. At home, identify the residence and yourself.
- II. Keep the caller informed.
 - A. If you must leave the line for any reason, excuse yourself properly.
 - B. Return frequently to the line to report what you are doing to the caller.
- III. Be ready to take down information.
 - A. Have a pen and pad handy.
 - B. Verify what you take down by repeating the message to the other party.
- IV. Be courteous
 - A. Speak clearly and in a reasonable tone.
 - B. Avoid irritating mechanical noises such as scraping a pencil across the mouthpiece.
- V. Guides for answering want ads by telephone:
 - A. Talk to the person named in the ad.
 - B. Tell him what you are calling about.
 - C. Answer his questions about your background and experience.
 - D. Find out what you need to know about the job.
 1. Where is the business located?
 2. What are the hours?
 3. What work will you be doing?
 4. What is the pay?
 - E. Get the name and address of the person you are supposed to see.
 - F. Find out when you are to go there.

1-3-6 Practice telephone courtesy

Act out the following situations, practicing the rules of telephone courtesy.

- A. Answer the following want ad. Use two students, one to be the applicant and one to be the employer.

"Auto mechanic, full or part time. Expd. with tools. $90 up.
Call JK 6-8765."

- B. You are alone in the shop. A fire breaks out in the storage area. Use the telephone to your best advantage.
- C. You are a service manager for a Ford dealer, and you have received an angry call about a poor repair job. Deal with the angry customer. More than one student will act this out.
- D. You are calling friends to announce a meeting of the school safety council. Several students may participate in this one.
- E. You are an auto mechanic, and you have to call in sick. One student should be the manager, and one the mechanic.
- F. You are a mechanic, and you have to call the warehouse to order a piece of equipment. One student will be the warehouse answering service.
- G. You have a new car, and you are calling a girl friend to invite her to go riding with you. One student will be the girl friend.
- H. You have had a minor accident in your car. You walk to a house nearby and ask to use the phone. Whom would you call, and what would you say? Act it out.

1-3-7 Guidelines for Giving Directions

1. Be accurate. Just one wrong direction will destroy the value of your explanation.
2. Be complete. Leave out one direction and again your explanation will fall down.
3. Be simple. Speak at the listener's level.
4. Use visual aids or diagrams where possible. One picture is worth a thousand words.
5. Keep everything in order.

Examine the following faulty directions. Point out the errors, referring to the list above. Which of the above guidelines does the writer forget?

"Driving a car with a manually operated shift is not difficult once you have got the knack of it. First you start the car. You put your foot on the starter, and then when the motor starts to purr, give the car plenty of gas. Oh, yes, I forgot to mention that you must turn the key on. You must be sure, too, that the car is in neutral when you start. It is sometimes useful to use the choke when you start.

You should know how the gear shift works. Neutral is in the middle; first or low is in the lower left; second is in the upper right, and high is in the lower right. You go from first to second to third. Reverse is in the upper left.

You are now riding along in high. You get to high by starting in first, waiting until you have speed, shifting into second and so on. Riding along, you keep your right foot on the gas and your left foot ready for the brake if you need it.

To stop the car you put on the brake with your left foot. That's all there is to it. But before you put on your brake, you should put your right foot on the clutch pedal so that the car will be out of gear. This prevents the brake from fighting against the car's power, for when the car is out of gear, the car is coasting, not using the motor for power. There are two pedals on the floor, the left for the brake and the right for the clutch. There is also an emergency hand brake."

1-3-8 Giving Directions - Choose one of the following topics or a similar one to present to the class.

1. How to complete an accident report in industry
2. Parallel parking
3. Using a fire extinguisher
4. Understanding the safety color codes
5. Storage of flammable liquids
6. Brush painting
7. Spray painting
8. How to break a skid
9. Preventing fires in the shop
10. Using the proper gear in the shop (goggles, apron)
11. How to file metal
12. How to treat burns
13. How to drive rivets
14. How to run a lathe
15. Before you start the car engine

1-3-9 Sample Outline - Transportation Safety

I. Driver Education

- A. 60% of U.S. high schools
 - 1. Course lasts a full semester
 - 2. Behind-the-wheel lab work offered
- B. Fewer accidents from people who have had driver education

II. Pedestrian safety

- A. Pedestrians often the cause of accidents
- B. Precautions
 - 1. Sidewalk use
 - 2. Face traffic
 - 3. Obey signals
 - 4. Play in fenced area

III. Bicycles and wheel toys

- A. Off streets (all except bicycles)
- B. Bicycle safety rules
 - 1. Obey automobile traffic signals
 - 2. Signal when turning or stopping
 - 3. Ride single file
 - 4. Avoid heavy traffic

Ear - Q??

Communication is Circular and Requires Feedback

Feedback is Related to Listening

Poor listeners tune out subjects they may find uninteresting.

Good listeners search for useful information and try to acquire additional interests.

Stimulation... Over-Stimulation

"You're crazy!
The war was not started by....!"

"Perhaps.... but I'll wait and see what else you have to say."

Poor listeners become over-stimulated with ideas of speaker. Over-stimulation causes internal refutation and disregard of remainder of speaker's ideas.

Good listeners withhold judgment until comprehension
of speaker's ideas is complete.
Any refutation is offered
tactfully and follows complete comprehension.

Good listeners expend considerable energy and work hard at listening.

Poor listeners expend little energy and do not work at listening.

Good listeners minimize and ignore possible listening distractions.

Poor listeners create and/or are influenced by distractions

"Let's watch that special historical broadcast."

"Nah, you won't catch me watching that stuff."

Challenge Factor

Good listeners seek and listen to meaningful, enriching material; they try to find a variety of listening situations.

Poor listeners avoid challenging listening situations and will not try to develop an appreciation of other areas.

"Liberal, Communist, loved ones, dictator - 33"

"That's interesting, but..."

VOTE

Emotional Words

Good listeners interpret 'color words', and consider context. They listen for overall meaning and can identify words that arouse emotion.

Poor listeners operate with closed minds and allow emotional words to interfere with careful evaluation.

Good listeners utilize the thought/speech speed differential by: anticipating, comparing, evaluating, reviewing, summarizing.

Poor listeners do not utilize the thought/speech speed differential.

DIRECTIONS FOR COMPLETING MONITORIAL SHEET

A. Heading Information:

1. Class: Enter the name of the Interest-Based Curriculum Area, eg. Math For Industry.
2. Teacher: Enter name of teacher. If more than one teacher is involved, give the name of the teacher managing the instructional activity.
3. Date: Enter the date of submission of the monitorial sheet.
4. Objectives (By Number): Enter the numbers of the interim-performance objectives covered by the monitorial sheet. Process and task level objectives should not be entered in this area of the form.
5. Time Interval: Specify the beginning and ending dates for the industrial activities covered on the particular monitorial sheet.

B. Line Item Information:

1. Objectives: Enter the number(s) of the process/task level objectives implemented to bring about the behaviors specified in the interim-performance objectives noted in A-4 above. Do not specify interim-performance objectives at the line item level.
2. Estimated Time: Enter the estimated time for completion of each process/task objective. This should be noted in terms of days to the nearest tenth. One day is equivalent to the instructional activity period for the given curriculum area for a single group of students.
3. Actual Time: Same as #2 above in terms of actual days and tenths of days utilized to carry out the line item objective.
4. Date Completed: Date of completion of the instructional activity.
5. Teacher's Initials: Initial each line item to signify completion of the instructional activity.

C. Additional Information:

1. Objectives Not Covered (List By Number): List those process/task objectives not implemented in the instructional activities for the given interim-performance objectives.
2. Objectives Altered or Added (List By Number; State Adjusted Objective on Back of Sheet): Complete as specified.

UNIT III
PARAGRAPHING

OVERVIEW : PARAGRAPHING

Writing is one of the four basic concepts in communication. It is important that high school students learn to write, for theirs is a world of questions and confusion, and the young people need to be heard and recognized. Writing, like any form of expression, reflects the individual. It is through writing that communication is put into concrete terms; therefore, what one writes must be clear, grammatically feasible, well-punctuated, organized, structured, and intelligently worded. The way a person organizes sentences and uses words determines his ability to communicate.

In oral communication one knows whether his ideas are understood by his listeners, and he has the opportunity of restating them or further explaining them if necessary. The circumstance changes in written communication, however, because the writer cannot follow his work around to restate ideas and to correct misunderstandings, he must make himself unmistakably clear before he releases his final copy.

This unit deals with the major aspects of paragraph writing: sentence structure, parts of speech, capitalization, punctuation, vocabulary, and unity and coherence in paragraphs. It is not called a grammar unit because its basic goal is not just knowledge of grammar. Grammar is the chest of tools that enables one to build effective sentences and repair faulty ones. Too many students reject English because grammar study is overemphasized.

Students whose major interest is power mechanics need to be guided to use grammar as the valuable tool that it is in order to write strong, clear sentences and paragraphs. In this unit there are practical exercises designed to motivate students ranging in ability levels from the very low to the very high. The purpose of this unit is to teach the students to think and to organize their thoughts into logical sentences and paragraphs. If they can do this, they can communicate through writing.

UNIT: PARAGRAPHING

1-0-0 At the end of the paragraph unit, the students will demonstrate (4,5,10, 11) their knowledge of writing paragraphs (which includes the basic grammar mechanics) by at least a 60% accuracy score of a teacher made test.

1-1-0 During several class periods, the teacher will explain, through use of handouts, the patterns of a sentence as evidenced by the project monitorial system.

1-1-1 Recognizing placement of subjects in a sentence (Use handout 1-1-1)

1-1-2 Finding verbs and verb phrases in a sentence (Use handout 1-1-2)

1-1-3 Picking out direct objects in a sentence (Use handout 1-1-3)

1-1-4 Discovering when to look for indirect objects (Use handout 1-1-4)

1-1-5 Asking questions in relation to finding adjectives (Use handout 1-1-5)

1-1-6 Asking questions in relation to finding adverbs (Use handout 1-1-6)

1-1-7 Discerning between action verbs and linking verbs (Use handout 1-1-7)

1-1-8 Memorizing the main prepositions and knowing how they can be used either adverbially or adjectively (Use handout 1-1-8)

1-2-0 The teacher will emphasize to the students the different structures and types of sentences as evidenced by the project monitorial system during the entire unit.

1-2-1 Learning about the different structures of sentences (Use handout 1-2-1)

- A. Simple
- B. Compound
- C. Complex
- D. Compound-Complex

1-2-2 Learning about the different types of sentences in reference to meaning (Use handout 1-2-2)

- A. Declarative
- B. Imperative
- C. Exclamatory
- D. Interrogative

1-2-3 Discussion of the different types in reference to length

- A. Short
- B. Medium
- C. Long

1-2-4 Learning about clauses (Use handout 1-2-5)

- A. Independent
- B. Dependent
- C. Noun

1-2-5 Learning about phrases (Use handout 1-2-6)

- A. Prepositional
- B. Participial, gerund, and infinitive (for advanced students only)

1-3-0 Periodically, the teacher will administer, collect, score and compile results in reference to the students' ability to comprehend the writing of a sentence pattern with their sentence knowledge as evidenced by a summary report of testing results.

1-4-0 During several class periods, the teacher will conduct a segment in the paragraph unit concerning the development of the paragraph as documented by monitoring certain written activities.

1-4-1 Explanation of the topic sentence (Use handouts to explain)

- A. Clarity
- B. Placement

1-4-2 By using the bulletin board as a teaching aid, explain paragraph unity, coherence, tone, and transitions in relationship to the topic sentence.

1-4-3 Use paragraph handouts (1-4-3), bulletin board, and filmstrip ("Steps in a Paragraph, 6 - 7," #A129-3) to strengthen 1-4-1 and 1-4-2.

1-4-4 Explain the purpose of saying enough about the subject without being verbose. Use handouts "The Act of Writing" (1-4-4) and filmstrips as guides.

"Steps in a Paragraph"

Steps 1-3 A-129-1

Steps 4-5 A-129-2

Steps 8-9 A-129-4

1-4-5 Develop paragraphs related to automotive mechanics by using definitions.

1-4-6 Discussion of other possible devices that might be used in writing a definitive paragraph.

- A. What is a definitive paragraph?
- B. Handout 1-4-7 (Definitive Paragraph)

- 1-4-7 Read paragraphs, answer questions and discuss.
- A. In how many ways does the paragraph define the main topic?
 - B. Why doesn't the dictionary alone complete the definition satisfactorily?
 - C. Find a sentence that tells what the main topic is not.
 - D. Cite the sentence that gives an example of what the main topic involves.
- 1-4-8 Using auto mechanic magazines, find other paragraphs developed by definition.
- 1-4-9 Develop one of the following ideas by the use of definition:
- A. A good auto mechanic is one who...
 - B. If a student is called a "rebellious" person, he is...
 - C. A good attitude is...
- 1-4-10 Develop a paragraph by giving details. (Descriptive Paragraph)
- A. Explain descriptive materials
 - B. Handout of an example of a paragraph developed by descriptive details
 - C. Write about something using only description. (a car, engine, motorcycle, etc.)
- 1-4-11 Read aloud descriptive paragraphs to the class which have been written by the class members.
- 1-4-12 Develop a paragraph through comparison or contrast. (Use handouts)
- A. Discussion of how to compare qualities of one thing with similar qualities of another thing in which the reader of the paragraph may already be aware
 - B. Discussion of how to contrast qualities of one thing with different qualities of another thing in which the reader of the paragraph is aware
- 1-4-13 Read aloud in class a comparison or contrast paragraph. Then ask:
- A. Is this a comparison or contrast?
 - B. Was the block or pendulum method used?
 - C. What would you, the student, do to change this paragraph?

1-4-14 Develop and write a paragraph using comparison or contrast with the following topics:

- A. An automobile to a person
- B. A mechanic to a doctor
- C. Gasoline in an engine to food substances in a person

1-4-15 Give the students example paragraphs illustrating the cause and effect relationship.

- A. Discuss the topic sentence as it answers the question, "why?"
- B. Discussion of theme
- C. Is there unity?
- D. What are the "convincing" reasons in each paragraph?

1-4-16 Read aloud some paragraphs from periodicals which emphasize the effects caused by a certain topic. For instance:

- A. Certain gasolines
- B. Exhaust systems
- C. Shock absorbers
- D. Engine tune-ups
- E. Wheel balancing
- F. Rotation of tires

1-4-17 Write a cause and effect paragraph using the following topic sentence: "The automobile has provided man not only with one of his greatest luxuries but also with a great enemy."

1-5-0 At the end of the paragraph lessons, the teacher will assign students various types of paragraphs to write; the project teacher will guide the students to do a self evaluation using AMSOC (1-5-0 handout) as a guide.

1-6-0 Throughout the lessons, the teacher will emphasize the importance of building good capitalization and punctuation habits as evidenced by the project monitorial system.

1-6-1 Use capital letters accurately.

- A. Explain the importance of capitalization.
 - 1. Capitalization is a writing signal; it points out certain words that should be significant.
 - 2. A message might be improperly conveyed by incorrect capitalization.
 - 3. The basic reason for learning the principles of capitalization is clarity in communication.
- B. Review the rules of capitalization.

- 1-6-2 Rewrite sentences, using new rules learned. (Handouts)
- 1-6-3 Rewrite paragraphs (ones chosen from 1-4-0 to 1-4-21) using new rules learned.
- 1-6-4 Use end punctuation and internal periods accurately. (Use poster and filmstrips.)
 - A. Explain the necessity of knowing this type punctuation.
 - 1. The writer must use signs and signals for clarity because, unlike the speaker, his intentions cannot be emphasized any other way.
 - 2. Punctuation is essential for maintaining effective two-way communication.
 - B. Illustrate rules concerning the use of periods.
 - C. Illustrate rules concerning question marks and exclamation points.
- 1-6-5 Write your own sentences (in relation to power mechanics) and punctuate properly.
- 1-6-6 Discuss the proper use of commas. (Use handouts and filmstrips)
- 1-6-7 Write sentences using commas and periods correctly.
- 1-6-8 Review of capitalization, commas, periods, and end punctuation. (Handouts)
- 1-6-9 Discuss rules related to apostrophes. (Use handouts and film-strip)
- 1-6-10 Fill in apostrophes on handout sheet.
- 1-6-11 Touch briefly on quotation usage. (Use handouts)
- 1-6-12 Relate the purposes of using colons and semicolons in sentences. (Use handouts)
- 1-6-13 Explain what hyphens, italics, parentheses, and dashes are and when these forms are used. (Use handouts)
- 1-6-14 Review proper capitalization and punctuation. (Use handouts)
- 1-7-0 At the end of the lessons related to capitalization and punctuation, the teacher will administer, collect, score and compile test results for the students as evidenced by a collected report of testing results.
- 1-8-0 Throughout the lesson, the teacher will relate to the students the need for proper knowledge of spelling rules and other spelling difficulties as evidenced by the project monitorial system.
 - 1-8-1 Learning activities in relation to suffixes (Handouts)
 - 1-8-2 Learning activities in relation to prefixes (Handouts)
 - 1-8-3 Discussion of words that are most often misspelled.

Write an original sentence illustrating each of the four types of phrases.

- A. (prepositional) _____

- B. (participial) _____

- C. (gerund) _____

- D. (infinitive) _____

READING FOR MAIN IDEAS Recognizing Main Topics and Details

- 1-4-1 (A) One basic reading skill that should become automatic is the ability to recognize main ideas. Fortunately, it is a skill that can be practiced repeatedly.

You know that every good paragraph has one main idea, or topic, and that every sentence in the paragraph says something about that topic. It may help you see the connection between the main topic and the supporting ideas if you compare a paragraph to a wheel. The main idea, or main topic, is the rim of the wheel. The details are the spokes. A topic is correctly stated when it includes all the important details in a paragraph - just as a rim holds together the spokes of a wheel. The diagram below will help you see how a main idea, or main topic, includes all the important details.

I. Engine parts

- A. Valves
- B. Spark plugs
- C. Pistons
- D. Cylinders
- E. Water pump

1. Thinking of the Main Topic

As you read each numbered list of items below, think "What one term includes all these items?"

Write your answer on the line after each list. (You may want to use more than one word in some cases.)

1. Herald, Times, Journal, Chronicle: _____
2. Blackboard, desks, books, chairs, maps, bulletin board: _____
3. Football, hockey, tennis, golf, basketball, baseball: _____
4. Encyclopedia, dictionary, World Almanac, Who's Who, Reader's Guide: _____
5. Jacket, cape, overcoat, trousers, skirt, blouse: _____

6. Overshoes, moccasins, slippers, pumps, rubbers, oxfords, loafers: _____

7. Rolls, muffins, doughnuts, biscuits: _____

8. Ants, crickets, dragonflies, beetles, bees: _____

II. Using an outline form

When you determine the main topic, as you have been doing, you are taking the first step in making an outline. The two lists below have been set up in outline form, but with a blank for each main topic. Beside each Roman numeral write the main topic, beginning it with a capital. You may use more than one word.

I _____ I _____

- A. Gymnasium
- B. Auditorium
- C. Library
- D. Cafeteria

- A. Opera
- B. Television
- C. Motion pictures
- D. Stage plays

III. Reorganizing Main Topics

You have had practice in Exercises I and II in thinking of a main topic to cover the details in a given list. Now it should be easy for you to select the main topic when it is included in the list. Find the main topic in each of the four lists of words below and draw a circle around it.

- | | | |
|-------------|-------------------------|---------------------|
| 9. Tractors | 10. Tax collector | 11. Quiz shows |
| Jeeps | Mayor | Television programs |
| Trucks | City officials | Newscasts |
| Vehicles | Auditor | Spectaculars |
| Automobiles | Council members | Comedy hours |
| Buses | Water commissioner | Dramas |
| | 12. Analyzing words | |
| | Recognizing main ideas | |
| | Adjusting speed | |
| | Using context clues | |
| | Reading skills | |
| | Following author's plan | |

IV. Discarding details that do not belong

The blank lines to the right of the lists below represent parts of outlines. In each list find one main idea and write it beside the letter A as if it were a subtopic in an outline. Then list the remaining items which belong under this subtopic. If you find details that do not belong, discard them, leaving one or more lines blank. (Capitalize the first word of each subtopic and detail.)

13. Bungalows

Igloos

Tepees

Dwellings

Capitols

Tenements

Cottages

A. _____

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

4. _____

5. _____

6. _____

14. Making model planes

Using leisure time

Watching television

Collecting stamps

Attending a concert

Attending school

Reading a novel

A. _____

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

4. _____

5. _____

6. _____

15. Muffler

Fuel pump

Horn

Electric clock

Speedometer

Clutch

Functional parts

A. _____

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

4. _____

5. _____

6. _____

- 1-4-1 (B) You might be interested in becoming a diesel technician. You would certainly find opportunities in this work because the diesel engine, one of the most efficient ways to produce power, is being used more and more in industry, farming, and transportation. For example, light models of the diesel are now used to power airplanes, motorboats, trucks, and farm equipment. Diesel motors drive pumps, air-conditioning and refrigeration equipment, power shovels, and other industrial tools. There is even the possibility that diesel engines will be adapted to run passenger automobiles.

SYMBOLS

MAIN IDEA

TOO GENERAL IDEA

ONE RELATED IDEA

UNRELATED IDEA

Draw the symbol by the numbered sentence that best explains it.

1. Future job market looks bright for diesel technicians.
2. The diesel engine is being used more and more in industry.
3. To be a diesel technician, college is necessary.
4. There is a possibility that diesel engines will be adapted to run passenger automobiles.

1-4-3 Definitions

1. Main ideas - The idea (subject) of the paragraph is called the main idea.
2. Topic sentence - The topic sentence states, in general terms, the main thought of the paragraph, the central idea that the writer especially wants the reader to get.
3. Coherence - Coherence is the term applied to give a specific order to paragraphs. Coherence may be: space order, comparison, interest, or difficulty.

Unity - Unity is having all sentences in the paragraph related to the main idea.

5. Tone - Tone is the manner in which one writes or speaks. In speaking or writing, one may develop a gay, sad, or somber tone.
6. Transitional Words - Transitional words (links) are those words that a writer uses to hold sentences and/or paragraphs together.
 - A. Correct usage of direct links makes it possible for the reader to follow smoothly without being jolted by a sudden break or gap in thought.

In narrative paragraphs, it is important to show the reader the time relationship between sentences.

First...	A minute later...
Then...	In the meantime...
At last...	On the following day...
The next week...	Before answering him...
Soon afterward...	As soon as I saw them...

In descriptive paragraphs, direct linking expressions are especially important; in order to get a clear picture, the reader must know not only what details to see but also how they are related to one another. Linking expressions like these should be used wherever they are needed to show this relationship:

Directly ahead...	Below...
To the left...	As you turn right...
Ten feet from the shore...	At the top...
Along the east wall...	Across the hall...

In expository paragraphs explaining how to make or do something, specific linking expressions like the following will guide the reader smoothly through the steps of the process:

First...	After applying the first coat...
Next...	Before you trim the edge...
Last of all...	When the glue is tacky...
Then...	As soon as it hardens...

When the details in the paragraphs give reasons, examples, or illustrations, you can clearly show the connection between sentences by using such linking words as these:

In the first place...	In the third place...
For example...	Furthermore...
Moreover...	Just as important...
For instance...	Finally...

To make sure the reader understands that you intend a contrast between the details in two sentences, you should emphasize the contrast with specific linking words--for example:

But...	However...
On the other hand...	Nevertheless...
In spite of this...	A year ago...Now...
In grade school...	In high school...

And to make clear the connection between two sentences, the first stating a cause and the second stating the result or effect, tie the sentences neatly together with one of the following linking words or expressions:

Therefore...	As a result...
So...So...	Consequently...
For this reason...	Because of this...

- B. The use of pronouns referring to a noun in a preceding sentence, the repetition of key words or phrases, the use of synonyms or substitute words to "echo" important words in previous sentences--are also effective in linking related ideas. These are called indirect links.

THE ACT OF WRITING

Varying the lengths of sentences can often be determined by the ideas themselves. Some ideas lend themselves naturally to short, direct sentences; other ideas are better suited to long sentences. Varying the beginnings of sentences can also develop naturally from the ideas. Try to develop a feeling for the use of variety in length and beginnings. If you learn to use this skill carefully, your writing can be more effective and more interesting.

PROBLEM 1

Choose a topic of your own or select one of the following topics for writing one or two paragraphs. Before completing your final copy, check your paper to see that you have achieved varied sentence length and varied sentence beginnings. But always try to achieve variation based upon some reason. In other words, make sure that your short sentences should be short and that your long sentences should be long. Your beginnings should be varied for a specific reason; for example, they might show time and place relationships or they might carry your reader from one aspect of your idea to another.

- a. the first hour in a new school
- b. a stormy night
- c. the longest walk
- d. a jet taking off
- e. the last two minutes of the basketball game

1-4-4

PRACTICE I

In the following paragraph all the sentences begin with the subject. Improve the effect of the paragraph by changing the beginnings of five or more of the sentences and combining or condensing some of the sentences to achieve greater variation in sentence lengths. Add necessary or useful words and phrases of your own, or change the order of the words if you find this desirable.

The night was black. He tried the door silently. It did not budge. He crept to the window. His flashlight showed no cracks in the paint on the frame. He knew the window had not been opened for years. He had little time left. He had to move fast. He could not afford to make a single sound. The people in the house were alert. Every light in the house seemed to go on simultaneously. A spotlight from the roof began searching the yard. He froze. He waited.

1-4-7 A paragraph that defines

CARBURETOR

A carburetor is a device to form an explosive mixture of air and a hydrocarbon liquid fuel of a volatile nature, such as gasoline. Its function may be divided into three steps: to discharge into the air stream the desired amount of fuel; to atomize the fuel; and to make a homogeneous air-fuel mixture. Carburetors have to be multiplied in large power-engine outfits for airplanes, four being employed for a 12-cylinder engine, and they require an altitude control to compensate for the rarer atmosphere at high altitudes. Carburetion is a process also required in the manufacture of air gas and carbureted water gas.

Look up the definition of carburetor in a dictionary.

- A. Why does the dictionary alone not complete the definition satisfactorily?
- B. In how many ways does the paragraph define the main topic? List several.
- C. Underline the topic sentence.
- D. Define these words that were used in the paragraph. Make a sentence with each.
 1. Volatile
 2. Atomize
 3. Homogeneous
 4. Compensate
 5. Air gas
 6. Water gas

1-4-10 Descriptive Paragraph

THE CRICKET

The Plymouth Cricket comes through with the little car that can. You can, too, have more fun and get good economy. It has features you look for in a mini-sized car. For example, Cricket has four doors, with childguard locks on the rear doors. Front and rear, there is enough head, leg, and knee room for four adults. And the trunk gives you a lot of luggage room. Cricket also comes through with power front disc brakes; a 4-cylinder engine; four-on-the floor, and fully-synchronized transmission. It has flow-through ventilation and front bucket seats with new vinyl roof, air conditioning, radio, and more.

1. Underline the topic sentence.
2. List several descriptive terms listed.
3. For each direct link box it in ☐ , for each indirect link circle ☐ .
4. You will note that the semicolon is used to separate a series instead of the comma. Write a rule to explain this punctuation.
5. Evaluate the paragraph by checking one of the following:

	YES	NO
Coherence
Unity
Topic sentence
Transitions
(a) direct
(b) indirect
What is the tone ?

1-4-12 Comparison or Contrast Paragraph

1-4-14

(Comparison)

The Alfa Romeo was a unique automobile which in many ways surpassed the revered Bugatti.

(Facts Stated)

Alfas, in my view, were pleasanter and easier to drive than most Bugattis, excepting the Type 57. Alfas steered more easily and shifted with less noise once you got the hang of their crash gear-boxes. Every Alfa I ever owned started instantly, but not so for the Bugatti. If I had to make a choice now, it would be the unique Alfa Romeo.

1. What is being compared?
2. What tone does the author express for the Alfa Romeo?
3. List three (3) comparisons made.
4. The last sentence is a "clincher" sentence, explain why.
5. Place each direct link in a box ☐ , circle indirect links ☐.

1-4-16 CAUSE AND EFFECT

1-4-17

How an Automobile Runs

The following paragraphs explain the basic operation of a gas-powered automobile that has a front engine, automatic transmission, and rear wheel drive. When you turn the ignition key, the starting motor gets electric power from the battery, and cranks the engine. You feed gasoline and air to the cylinders by pressing the accelerator. Electricity flows to the spark plugs and ignites the gas-air mixture. Burning of the mixture forces the pistons up and down. Their pumplike action turns the crankshaft, which carries engine power to the transmission. When you move the selector lever, the transmission sends the power to the drive shaft, final drive, and rear wheels.

1. When you turn the ignition key...

The ignition key operates the starting switch. Electricity flows from the battery to the starting motor. The starting motor spins the crankshaft, which starts the pistons moving up and down in the cylinders. The battery feeds electricity to the distributor through the coil. The distributor sends it to the right spark plug at the right time. The turning crankshaft operates the fuel pump. The fuel pump sucks gasoline from the fuel tank through the fuel line and sends it to the carburetor. There the gasoline is mixed with air.

2. When you press the accelerator...

Pressing the accelerator opens the throttle, letting the pistons draw the fuel mixture into the cylinders. Sparks from the spark plugs ignite the fuel, and the pistons go into their rapid pumplike action. As the pistons move up and down, connecting rods turn the crankshaft. The engine is now providing the power to move the car.

3. When you move the selector lever...

The selector lever controls the transmission, which carries the power from the crankshaft to the drive shaft. The drive shaft takes the power to the final drive, which turns the rear wheels.

1-4-20 Paragraphs that illustrate

VALVE BODY: Disassembling

Remove the hairpin retainer from the vacuum modulator valve, and then remove the valve from the valve body. Place the valve body assembly on two wooden blocks, face down. Drive out the converter pressure regulator valve retaining pin, and then remove the spring and valve from the bore. Remove the two clutch drum oil seal rings and the clutch drum selective thrust washer from the oil delivery sleeve. Remove the front-and-rear-oil-pump check valve from the valve body. Remove the manual control valve.

The downshift timing valve should not be removed unless replacement is called for by poor coast downshift operation. If the valve has to be replaced, pry the old valve assembly out with a small punch, using care to avoid damaging the bore in the valve body. Use an arbor press and a 7/16" socket to press in a new downshift timing valve until the tip on the check ball end is flush to 0.015" below the surface of the valve body.

VALVE BODY: Cleaning and Inspecting

Wash all parts in cleaning solvent and blow dry. Inspect all valves for nicks, burrs, scoring, or galling. Check for free operation in their respective bores. Inspect all springs for distortion and the locating pins in the valve body and side cover for damage. Replace with new pins where necessary. One pin should be installed in the valve body and the other in the side cover for assembly purposes. Inspect the mating surfaces of the valve body and the side covers. Be sure that they are flat and free of nicks and burrs.

1-6-1

B. Rules of Capitalization *

1. Begin every new sentence with a capital letter.
Example: Her new car was dark red. It was a Mustang.
Breezing over the hill, she was caught exceeding the speed limit.
2. Begin the first word of a direct quotation with a capital letter.
Example: "When will my car be ready to drive?" the lady asked the mechanic. The foreman yelled, "Watch out for that wrench!"
3. Capitalize the names of persons.
Example: Henry Ford Andy Granatelli
4. Capitalize the names of (a) continents, (b) countries (c) states, (d) streets, (e) parks, (f) rivers, and (g) particular buildings.
Example: (a) North America; Africa

Example: Wow! Look at that chopper!

* Adapted from Business English and Communication (3rd Ed.)

1-6-6 Rules for commas *

1. Use a comma or commas to set off a name in direct address.

Example:

Mr. Jones, the car is leaking oil. The cost of a new air conditioner, Mrs. Smith, is $395.00.

2. Use commas to separate parts of a date from one another and from any words following the date.

Example:

The antique car exhibition took place in June, 1963. On Monday, July 11, 1966, I was trying out a turbo-jet engine.

3. Use commas to separate parts of an address. Place a comma after the last part if it does not end the sentence.

Example:

Detroit, Michigan, is the car manufacturing center of the U.S. We have lived at 312 Cricket Lane, Merryville, Illinois 11117, since 1955.

4. Use commas to set off introductory words or expressions.

Example:

Oh, I hadn't heard that.
Well, I'll see.
No, I don't.

5. Use a comma or commas to set off appositives unless the appositive is very short and closely related to the word it explains.

Example:

Fred, the old mechanic, began to laugh.
My friend Joe has a new Corvette.

6. Use a comma after the complimentary close of any letter, and after the salutation in a friendly letter.

Example:

Yours sincerely,
Dear Uncle John,

7. Use commas between words, phrases, or clauses in a series.

Example:

We ordered mufflers, rings, pistons, and accelerator pedals.
I could spend my whole life riding motorcycles, racing dragsters, or repairing motors.

1-6-6

8. Use a comma to mark words left out.

Example:

John has a six-cylinder car; Mark, an eight-cylinder one.

9. Use a comma to separate the main parts of a compound sentence if the parts are joined by and, but, or, or nor.

Example:

Do not remove the radiator cap, or antifreeze will boil out.

10. Use a comma or commas to set off direct quotations.

Example:

"Please check the oil," said the motorist. The salesman whispered, "You can afford a Hanna Ford."

"How can we start the engine," asked the driver education class, "if we don't use a key?"

11. Use a comma to set off words that change a statement into a question or an exclamatory sentence.

Examples:

It's time for a pit stop, isn't it?
You've bought a new tractor, haven't you!

12. Use a comma to set off an introductory phrase or clause.

Example:

For various good reasons, we have decided to change our style of mufflers.
Speaking before a special committee, Evel Knievel gave his reasons for wanting to jump the Grand Canyon.

1-6-9 Rules for apostrophes *

1. Use the apostrophe to show possession with nouns or indefinite pronouns.

- (a) To form the possessive of any singular noun, add an apostrophe and s to the noun: Fred, Fred's car; station, station's service

- (b) To form the possessive of a plural noun ending in s, add only an apostrophe: Managers, managers' demands; cars, cars' brake systems

- (c) To form the possessive of a plural noun that does not end in s, add an apostrophe and s: two deer, two deer's hoofprints; children, children's sleeping comfort

- (d) Use an apostrophe to show possession with indefinite pronouns: somebody's papers; everyone's duty

If the indefinite pronoun is followed by else, that word takes the apostrophe: someone else's turn

- (e) Use no apostrophe in personal, interrogative, or relative possessives: ours, yours, its, hers, theirs, whose

- (f) Use the apostrophe with expressions of time, space and amount: a stone's throw, a two weeks' trip, a dollar's worth

- (g) In writing the possessive of a compound noun, add the apostrophe and s to the last word of the compound: editor in chief's opinion, father-in-law's tools

- (h) To show joint ownership, use the apostrophe with the last name only. To show separate ownership, use the apostrophe with each name.

Example:

I drive Sawyer and Brown's delivery truck.
There go Sawyer's and Brown's delivery trucks.

2. Use the apostrophe to make contractions of words or numerals.
Example:

we're (we are)
o'clock (of the clock)
class of '33 (1933)

3. Use an apostrophe to mark letters left out of words, particularly in colloquial speech.

Example:

comin' (coming)

1-6-9

4. Use an apostrophe to form the plurals of letters, figures, signs, or words used simply as words.

Example:

You use too many and's.

Add three 5's.

Dot your i's.

9. We should have the clutch repaired by 4 oclock.
10. This Chevy II is yours, not ours.

1-6-11 Rules for quotation marks *

Rule 1. Always enclose in quotation marks the exact words that anyone uses.

Study the following examples.

"How do you like our idea?" asked Milton.

Ruth objected, "I don't approve of it."

"Well," I put in, "we haven't much choice."

"You're right," agreed Tom. "Tomorrow is the deadline."

Do not use quotation marks around an indirect quotation.

Ed said that he would go. (Ed's exact words:

"I will go.")

Rule 2. In writing conversation, begin a new paragraph each time that the speaker changes.

Rule 3. In quoting more than one paragraph, use quotation marks at the beginning of each paragraph, but at the close of the final paragraph only.

Rule 4. Use quotation marks to show words or phrases used in a special sense; that is, for (a) technical, (b) ironical, or (c) unusual words.

a) This process is known as "tapping."

b) These so-called "reforms" are a mockery.

c) The "ins" were trying desperately to defeat the "outs."

Rule 5. Quote titles of short stories, short poems, or short musical works; of chapters, articles, essays, or speeches; of names of art works.

This chapter, "Relevant Poetry," analyses Shapiro's "Auto Wreck."

Rule 6. Use single quotation marks for a quotation within a quotation.

"I like the poem 'Old Ships' especially," said he.

Rule 7. Place inside the quotation marks a period or a comma used with them; place a colon or a semicolon outside. Place inside, a question mark or an exclamation point that is part of the quotation. Place outside, a question mark or an exclamation point that is not part of the quotation.

1-6-11

"He claims," said Mark, "that you lost."
Did you play "Easy Rider"?
I like "Prayer for Pilots"; so does Elaine.
He shouted, "Wait for me!"

* Building Better English 11

1-6-12 Rules for colons and semicolons *

1. Use a semicolon to separate the clauses of a compound sentence if the conjunction between the clauses is omitted.
Example: Everybody wants expensive cars; some get them.
2. Use a semicolon before such expressions as however, then, moreover, nevertheless, consequently, hence, thus, for instance, in fact, that is, and therefore if they come between the clauses of a compound sentence.
Example: For a moment there was silence; then the roar of racing began.
3. Use semicolons to separate items in a series if there are commas within the items themselves.
Example: Dodge, a product of the Chrysler Corporation; Chevrolet, a product of General Motors; and Rambler, a product of American Motors, were compared in the project.
4. Use a colon after a statement that precedes a list introduced by such an expression as the following, as follows, these, or by a number.
Example: I shall need two things: time and money.
To repair this carburetor, I shall need the following items: jets, floats, a pump, and gaskets.
5. Use a colon after the salutation in a business letter.
Example: Dear Mr. Smith:
Dear Sir:
6. Use a colon between numbers indicating time.
Example: 3:30 P.M.
10:00 A.M.

* Building Better English 10

1-6-13 Hyphen, italics, parentheses, and dashes

A. Use a hyphen (-):

1. In writing certain compound nouns.
Example: brother-in-law, great-grandfather
2. In spelling out numbers from twenty-one to ninety-nine.
Example: This engine is twenty-five years old.
3. In writing out fractions used as adjectives.
Example: The labor bill was passed by a two-thirds majority.
4. With the suffix -elect and some prefixes such as self-, vice-, and ex-.
Example: ex-ambassador, president-elect.
5. Between the parts of compound adjectives used before a noun.
Example: Souped-up motor.
6. In a compound adjective made of a prefix and a proper noun or adjective.
Example: anti-war
7. At the end of a line when you must break a word.

B. Use italics (underlining):

1. For titles of books, newspapers, magazines, long plays, poems, or musical compositions, and for the names of ships, airplanes, and trains.
Example: Auto Mechanics Fundamentals
The Natchitoches Times
Car and Driver
Cannonball
2. For foreign words, words or figures referred to as such, and words emphasized.
Example: laissez faire

C. Parentheses () are used:

1. To enclose words that give additional information.
Example: At 12:00 noon (the usual time), the lunch whistle sounded.

1-6-13
